

ASK the Arizona State Archive!

We've just made researching Arizona's amazing history a whole lot easier with the launch of the Arizona State Knowledge Center.

Building on our tradition to fundamentally transform the way the public accesses information, the innovative web based portal allows users to explore the archival material housed at our State Archives. Visitors can search by term, check out Core Collections, or simply browse through the vast amount of resources.

Whether you are curious about the Wyatt Earp inquest or looking for state, county or local records, just ASK!"

New FRANK Talks Topics and Training Webinar Available

FRANK Talks are free, thought-provoking, expert-facilitated discussions on important issues facing communities that libraries can host for free. Attendees discuss issues of local and national importance in local libraries at a single-session 75-minute program, led by a humanities scholar/expert on the topic. FRANK Talks engage participants with important issues and provide the opportunity to put them in context, weigh facts, and consider different points of view.
